Oreo

It was summertime at Webkinz World. The Webkinz were having lunch at their friends' house. But after lunch was over, Comet saw someone was missing. "Where's Lulu? Wasn't she supposed to be here?" asked Comet.

>"She told me that she was sick. Well, actually, she's been sick for awhile." said Stripes.
"Is it food poisoning again?" asked Chance.

>"We seem to think so." said Tabby.
"Well, we should head back. It was nice seeing you guys again." said Snowball.

>"Thanks. Sassy makes a pretty good pizza." said Emily. The Webkinz went back to the house to do their usual things again.
"Maybe I should go check on Lulu. I'm worried about her." said Stripes. He went towards Lulu's room.

>"Uh, Stripes? I think it's best that you stay away from her. Just until she gets better." said Alley.
"Why?" asked Stripes.

>"Well, we don't want two sick Webkinz here. Have you already called Dr. Quack?" asked Vixen.
"I have, but he doesn't know what's going on either." said Spark.

>"How long was she sick for?" asked Easter.
"I don't know. Probably a few months." said Prancer.

>"That's it. I'm going to see her right now." said Stripes. He went over to Lulu's room and saw that the door was closed. He tried turning the doorknob, but it was locked. He then knocked on the door.
"Lulu, it's me. Stripes." said Stripes.

>"Come on." came Lulu's voice.
"I can't. It's locked." said Stripes.

>"Okay. I'm coming." said Lulu. Stripes then heard the door open just a little. Stripes opened the door wider and stepped inside.
"Lulu, explain to me why you've been locked in your own room for almost 3 months? And why is it so dark in here?" Stripes turned on the lights in her room. On Lulu's bed, he saw Lulu, and something else. Beside her was a newborn kitten just like her. Black-and-white fur and green eyes. Lulu was nursing the kitten.

>"Lulu, what is that?" asked Stripes as he pointed at the newborn kitten.
"It's a baby, silly. He was born a few days ago on June 24th."

>"'He'? It's a boy?" asked Stripes.
"Yes, but I haven't got a name for him yet." said Lulu.

>"Why didn't you tell anyone about this? Or all of our friends? More importantly, why didn't you tell me about it?"
"I didn't want to freak you out. Or anyone else. So, I locked myself in my room while I was pregnant and decide to wait until the baby was born."

>"Who's the father?" asked Stripes.
"That should be obvious. You are."

>"I'm a dad? Wow."
"So, Stripes. What's taking so long?" asked Hector as he and the others came in Lulu's room. They saw Lulu and the newborn kitten.

>"Aww. Lulu had a baby." said Jessica.
"When was he born?" asked Chandler.

>"June 24th. A few days ago." said Lulu.
"Wow. That's just a few days before mine." said Alley.

>"And mine." said Easter.
"Well, is it a boy or girl?" asked Blackie.

>"It's a boy." said Lulu.
"Well, do you have a name planned? If not, I suggest you pick Oreo." said Tabby.

>"Actually, Oreo is not a bad name, Tabby." said Spark.
"Well, then it's settled." said Lulu. She then looked down at the newborn kitten. "Welcome to the Webkinz family, Oreo."
